

Development Cost Charges May Apply to Your Development

Every person who obtains:

1. Approval of the subdivision of a parcel of land under the Land Title Act or the Strata Property Act;
2. A building permit authorizing the construction or alteration of buildings, or structures for any purpose other than the construction of the three (3) or less self-contained dwelling units; or
3. A building authorizing construction, alteration or extension of a building or structure other than a building or portion of it used for residential purposes, where the accumulative value of the work exceeds fifty thousand ($50,000.00) dollars;

shall pay to the City the Development Cost Charges applicable to such subdivision, construction, alteration or extension as provided for in the Schedules.

Rates Depend on the Type of Development

Charges can only be confirmed upon receipt of substantially completed plans.

- Residential rates vary from sector to sector within the City, and vary according to density.
- Commercial rates vary from sector to sector within the City, and vary according to the square footage of building area, number of storeys and site area.
- Industrial rates vary from sector to sector within the City, and are based on the area of the lot.

Rates are subject to change from time to time by the approval of a revision to the bylaw by the Province and City Council.

For further information on Development Cost Charges, contact the Development Applications Division at 604-276-4088, or a copy of the bylaw can be purchased from the City Clerk's Office.
