Staff Report

Origin

The Richmond Community Services Advisory Committee (RCSAC) adopted a new Charter at their Annual General Meeting in October, 2005 and sought Council's endorsement.

On March 27th, 2006, Council resolved:

That, as per the report (dated March 6, 2006 from the Manager, Policy Planning), the new Charter of the Richmond Community Services Advisory Committee be endorsed, subject to the inclusion of the RCSAC's advocacy role as a collective body in the new RCSAC charter, under the guidance of City Council.

Findings Of Fact

As follow-up to the March resolution, a letter dated April 4, 2006 (Attachment 1) was sent to the RCSAC from the City providing staff suggestions regarding how the new RCSAC Charter and future work programs might be clarified.

The RCSAC Executive then met with Policy Planning staff to discuss points raised in the letter, and subsequently a second City letter dated June 29, 2006 was sent outlining Charter and work program changes agreed to at the meeting (Attachment 2).

The Charter was revised accordingly and a memo was sent from the Co-Chairs to the membership outlining the changes (Attachment 3). At the December 11, 2006 AGM of the RCSAC, the membership endorsed the revisions.

The revised Charter is found in Attachment 4.

Analysis

1. RCSAC Roles

Key revisions made to the report in terms of advocacy role are:

- "provide a leadership and educational role in social issues affecting community services", and
- "advise City Council and may, in consultation with City Council, make representations to other policy-making bodies".

The revised Charter allows for the RCSAC to take leadership regarding social issues and to convey perspectives to other organizations and levels of government, given that these do not conflict with City positions.

2. Future Work Programs

The revised Charter provides for the RCSAC to undertake projects at Council's request, as long as the appropriate budget, staff resources and members' time permits.

Financial Impact

None.

Conclusion

The revised RCSAC Charter incorporates Council suggestions of March 27, 2006.

Staff recommend that the revised RCSAC Charter be endorsed.

Dear Mr. McCoy:

Re: Richmond Planning Committee Suggestions

On March 27th, 2006, Council resolved:

1. That, (as per the report dated March 6, 2006 from the Manager, Policy Planning), the new Charter of the Richmond Community Services Advisory Committee be endorsed, subject to the inclusion of the RCSAC's advocacy role as a collective body in the new RCSAC Charter, under the guidance of City Council.
2. That, (as per the report dated March 6, 2006 from the Manager, Policy Planning), the Richmond Community Services Advisory Committee 2006 Work Program be approved, subject to the inclusion of how the RCSAC may address a large social vision model and gaps in social services for the City, into their 2006 Work Program.

Based on the March 21st, 2006 Richmond Planning Committee discussion, below are City's staff's suggestions regarding how the RCSAC may better clarify its:

- Charter, and
- 2006 and future annual work programs.

"RCSAC Relationship To Council

The RCSAC is to assist Council by providing the following advice (e.g., information, options, opinions, recommendations) and support regarding the City's social service challenges, in order to improve the lives of Richmond residents, as the population increases:

- RCSAC Role: Advocacy
Under the guidance of City Council, the RCSAC may advocate, as a collective body for the City, to senior governments and other social service stakeholders and partners, to improve social policy, social service planning, models, services, programs, service delivery and funding.

• City's Social Service Preferences

The RCSAC recognizes that, in the planning, management and delivery of social services, the City prefers the following:

- The City's social service role is primarily as a "facilitator" (e.g., facilitate social service co-ordination, needs assessments, planning, program and service delivery), not as a provider of social programs and services.
- Generally, the City prefers "prevention" over "treatment".
- "Partnerships" are to be emphasized among social service partners, who include clients (e.g., those in need of and receiving social services), professionals, governments, regional agencies, institutions, the co-operative and private sectors, community groups and Richmond residents.
- The RCSAC is to consult with and strive for consensus among all partners in planning, managing and delivering social service visions, models, programs and services.

• RCSAC Social Planning Scope

The RCSAC will, subject to resources and in consultation with social service clients and partners:

- prepare a long term social policy and service vision [e.g., to 2021] for Richmond,
- identify Richmond's short and long term social policy and service needs,
- identify existing social service models, programs, services and delivery approaches,
- review and identify, for the short and long terms:
 - social models, policies, programs, services and delivery approaches which should continue,
 - gaps in social models, policies, programs, services and delivery approaches,
 - needed and effective social models, policies, programs, service and delivery approaches,
- provide advice (e.g., information, options, opinions, recommendations) to Council regarding social policy and service issues referred to it by Council,
- bring to Council's attention, emerging social service and policy issues, solutions and advice,
- report to Council, at least once every year,
- other, as Council approves.

• RCSAC - Partner Co-ordination

The RCSAC will recognize and respect the roles of the City's other advisory committees [e.g., child care, seniors, intercultural], clients and partners, to ensure complementary and co-ordinated advice."

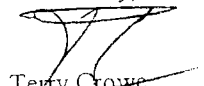

Requests

It is requested that the RCSAC:

1. Modify its Charter and annual work programs to incorporate these suggestions. The RCSAC may reword the above suggestions, to properly incorporate them into the RCSAC Charter and work programs.
2. Provide Council and staff with a revised RCSAC Charter and 2006 work program, which incorporate these suggestions. These documents can be mailed to Council and staff.

Dear Mr. McCoy and Ms. Boyd:

Re: RCSAC Charter and Work Program

Purpose

This letter outlines some key points covered at the May 24, 2006 RCSAC Executive and City meeting discussion regarding the attached City letter to the RCSAC. The April 4, 2006 letter includes staff suggestions pertaining to the March 21st, 2006 Planning Committee discussion regarding the new RCSAC Charter and 2006 Work Program.

RCSAC Advocacy Role

The rationale for ensuring that the RCSAC advocacy role is guided by Council is to ensure that the RCSAC does not promote policies or actions that Council is not prepared to support. On some issues, it is important that the City rather than an advisory committee take the lead (e.g., issues that may affect funding, intergovernmental relations). As Council approval may not be required or practical in all circumstances, a phone call to Councillor Derek Dang or Terry Crowe may be sufficient.

The RCSAC may wish to propose a leadership or educational role regarding a particular issue.

RCSAC Social Planning Scope

If additional resources are required to prepare information for Council (e.g., needs assessments, inventories) the social planning role played by the RCSAC would be subject to the availability of time and financial resources.

A clause may be added to the Charter to the effect that the RCSAC may undertake such work, subject to the allocation of an appropriate budget and sufficient RCSAC member time to advise the project.

RCSAC – Partner Co-ordination

The RCSAC is not expected to ensure complementary and co-ordinated advice on every issue with other City advisory committees because perspectives and time frames may differ; however, working for consensus is preferable to controversy.

Varying Advice Protocol

If varying opinions arise within the RCSAC regarding recommendations to Council, dissenting opinions may be submitted to Council as an attachment to a RCSAC document.

If varying opinions arise between the RCSAC and other groups making recommendations to Council (e.g., other City advisory committees), the RCSAC may also present their perspective to Council.

If varying opinions arise between the RCSAC and City Staff, the RCSAC may contact the Manager of Policy Planning.

Next Steps

The RCSAC agreed to reword the RCSAC Charter and RCSAC 2006 Work Program reflecting the above discussion, and forward the revised Charter and Work Program to Council and staff.

For clarification, please call me at 604-276-4139 or Lesley Sherlock, Social Planner, at 604-276-4220.

Thank you.

Yours truly,

Terry Crowe

I. MISSION STATEMENT OF THE RICHMOND COMMUNITY SERVICES ADVISORY COMMITTEE

To encourage and promote those social policies and community services which contribute to the general health, welfare and quality of life of the residents of Richmond, and to increase inter-agency relations and cooperation in order to enhance community capacity.

II. HISTORY

The Richmond Community Services Advisory Committee, hereinafter referred to as “RCSAC”, received formal recognition as an advisory body to Richmond City Council and its appropriate Committees on May 25, 1987¹.

It builds on the information gathering and sharing strengths of the Richmond Community Services Council, which served the community in a similar but less formal capacity from April, 1978 to its evolution as the RCSAC in September, 1987.

During several years of Community services as a voluntary collaborative of non-profit, government and private agencies and organizations in the field of social and related community services, the Richmond Community Services Council and its member organizations were instrumental in the development and establishment of:

- The municipally funded RCMP Youth Intervention Program;
- A municipal social planner position;
- Richmond Child Protection Network;
- Richmond Family Place;
- An open referral in-the-home parenting program (lost with others during the 1983 restraint measures imposed by major government funding sources);
- Collaboration in preparation of the report Preparing for a Livable Future: Recommendations by the City Center Steering Committee;
- Improved Municipal Grant application and appeal processes;
- The Child Care Advisory Committee;
- The Inventory of Social Services in Richmond
- The Richmond Intercultural Advisory Committee

An RCSAC Poverty Response Committee was established, and reports were submitted to Council. This has now become an independent committee.

Representatives from the RCSAC

- participated in the Community Parks, Recreational & Cultural Working Group to assist in providing City Council with a Master Plan;
- currently participate in the Substance Abuse Task Force; and
- the Richmond Intercultural Advisory Committee.

An Oral History of RCSC, later to become RCSAC

(Delivered by Olive Bassett at the RCSAC General meeting of December 8, 2003)

It is ten years since I have been associated with this advisory council, some of which I speak on today could be familiar to many of you but perhaps some of you are not familiar with the early history I hope it will be of interest to you. I was a member of RCSC for many years before becoming a school trustee then I was elected as their Rep. on the PAC (Policy Advisory Council) in 1990. Back in 1978, there was very little planning for social services, something had to be done, and the United Way was invited to set up some social planning for the community. There was no Social Planner at the municipal level at that time. The Child Services Committee, a committee of the United Way, was not representative enough; its mandate was services to children 12 & under. A newly formed Child Abuse Committee was attempting to educate the public on what was happening to children; the community health nurses and social workers were the only ones going into the homes of many abused children. But the climate of the times prevented anyone from speaking out especially about sexual abuse, this was a taboo topic, no one wanted to talk about it. And there were many turf problems, every one was working in isolation on their own particular issues and problems, this is mine that is yours, don't mix the two! Finally the United Way placed an arms length community person in as Chair of the Child Services Committee hoping to become more effective. Something was still needed; the committee was not representative of agencies working with families, children & youth. Palmer School had just gone up in smoke, at the hands of a teen-age girl who badly needed treatment. There were no services of the kind youth like her needed, but it was risking a teachers or a community health nurse's job to speak out on lack of services. It was so difficult to address so many social problems in the community but at that time, the thought of washing your linen in public was not to be tolerated. The School Board refused to put a family life program into the schools. The community was polarized. Many were demanding the program, just as many were in denial it was needed, and these felt the only place to teach this subject was in the home. Which was fine but those children needing the program did not come from homes where this kind of education was taught. It was a little later I believe the Richmond Youth Services Agency came into being to focus on the issues and problems facing the over 12's. And so, it was in this type of atmosphere that a major meeting was held with many of those delivering social services to families. Through this meeting, they got the endorsement needed to be something much broader than the Richmond Children's Committee. A Steering Committee was set up that met twice a month for a solid year and what came out of that was the framework for the Richmond Community Services Council. That was in 1978, and nine years later in '87, with the assistance of a municipal councilor, a social planner had finally been hired, RCSC was restructured and given the formal title of the Richmond Community Services Advisory Council, RCSAC, as it is known today. They would make recommendations for social service issues and report those issues & concerns directly to the Municipal Council through the Policy Advisory Council, who were elected from the Boards of the individual agencies to serve on PAC. They were the political arm of the RCSAC. And Council listened. In their eyes, it was no longer just staff driven. These were elected people making the recommendations. With the new structure, there was also the IAC, Inter Agency committee, made up the staff and the 'Hands On' people who worked in the field, and the Coordinating Committee overseeing both IAC & PAC. This is all in your charter, I found it very interesting to re-read, and it would be well worth your re-reading pages 20 to 24. In 1989, the RCSAC held a "Strategy Planning and Priority Setting Meeting". This was an extremely important meeting for RCSAC. Johnny Carline, Deputy Administrator, Strategic Planning for Richmond spoke on what Richmond could look like in the future, two questions he asked of the group: 1. "What are the priorities for service provision for all of the agencies in the next three years?" 2. "What suggestions do you have for the municipality to incorporate social issues into the growth management strategy?" A planning committee took all the suggestions, solutions, comments and concerns and brought in a final report in January 1990. Seven (7) recommendations came out of it and were presented to council, they may help you in your deliberations on the restructure process, I will leave it with Michael Then in 1994, RCSAC sent out an excellent questionnaire to member organizations, to see if the advisory council was meeting the needs of its membership by addressing gaps, identifying issues and resources to address them and then develop an action plan. The survey was divided into six major sections: Role & Function, Participation, Community issues, Strengths & Weaknesses, Suggestions for raising the profile of RCSAC and lastly the potential for sending out a newsletter. I will also leave a copy of this with Michael, as it may prove useful. I see you are now contemplating another re-structure, perhaps some questions that you may ask yourselves are: "What do you want to accomplish that you are not doing now?" "When was the last time your charter was brought up to date?" "How many agencies out there are not aware of what you do?" "How many agencies or groups out there doing a service for the community, are you not aware of?" In my opinion the reason RCSAC has survived while many others have not, is because community volunteers and staff have worked together for a common goal, this way everyone wins. The effectiveness of RCSAC has always been present to a greater or lesser degree. It is a tremendously important organization and the accomplishments you have gained have not come easy. It is an organization you can be proud to belong to. However, it must be supported by each and every social service organization in order to have the greatest impact for good.

Thank you.

RCSAC Nominations to External Committees

There are two styles of nomination to external committees*:

1. Nominations of persons to represent RCSAC on that committee
2. Nominations of persons who are considered by RCSAC to be appropriate to be members of that committee, but who would not be representatives of RCSAC

The processes for these two styles would be somewhat different, but some aspects would be the same.

Process:

In all cases in which RCSAC is asked for nominations to external committees, information about the position will be circulated to all member organizations/members and nominations will be requested.

The Executive Committee will consider the nominations received, and the most appropriate candidate will be chosen and nominated. The Executive Committee may interview candidates if it deems that to be necessary.

If no suitable candidates are found using this process, the Executive may call for nominations from the general community.

If applications are received from the general community, for style 1 positions, the Executive will interview candidates to determine their general understanding and support of RCSAC principles and goals. For Style 2 positions, the Executive Committee may interview candidates if they believe it is necessary.

In all cases, details of appointments will be announced at the Next General Committee meeting.

* The word “committee” is used in this document but the procedure will apply to appointments to any external organization.
